Giant gourds

The Minden and District Horticultural Association was dealing with weighty matters Saturday. It was the annual weigh-in of the season's largest pumpkins at the McMahon Feed Store. The pumpkin grown by Joe Rivers, centre, tipped the scales at 126 pounds to claim this year's title. Basil Stevenson, right, captured second prize with a 104 pound pumpkin, while Richard Taylor took third place with a 73 pounder. Organizer Pauline Plooard, left was fourth at 62.5 pounds. Other entrants included Jay Roland at 48 pounds, Lorna Roland, 39 pounds and Audrey Northey at 32 pounds.

Fight continues for third class

by Jerry Grozelle

The library of Archie Stouffer Elementary School was packed with angry parents and students last week for a meeting with school board officials regarding the amalgamation of three grade 8 classes into two.

Director of Education Paul Doiron and Superintendent in charge of curriculum for the Trillium Lakelands District School Board Dale Robinson were in the hot seats for the Tuesday evening meeting.

The fact that the school's enrolment is 31 students short of the projected number and the kindergarten enrolment is high has created a problem. The proposed solution is unacceptable to the students and parents.

The dilemma is where to allocate teaching staff. The options offered are to either amalgamate three Grade 8 classes into two groups of 35 and 36 students or to have a split class of Grade 7 and 8 students.

Most seem to agree that the larger grade 8 classes would

by Jerry Grozelle

Highland Road area residents and cottagers can breathe a sigh of relief. The Highland Road site that was being investigated as a possible septage lagoon has been eliminated as a suitable location for such a facility.

The Thursday meeting of the Algonquin Highlands council was moved to the Stanhope Community Centre to accommodate a large number of area residents who were concerned that a septage lagoon was being considered for their area.

Keith Thomas of Thomas Contracting addressed the crowd at the meeting to, as he said, "clarify some facts, correct some misinformation and add some comments."

Thomas noted that he was fully responsible for digging the Students at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School expressed their compassion for the victims of the September 11 tragedy in New York and Washington last week. For a donation of a loonie the students could autograph a Canadian flag that will be sent to New York as a symbol of their concern for everyone who died or was injured in the terrorist attack. The loonies will be given to the relief agencies to assist the victims and their families. The campaign was organized by Dan Marsden. The students signing the flag are members of Traci Hubbert's History class.

MOE lists Minden water system again even though repairs are complete

The operation of the Minden Water Treatment Plant has again been listed by the Ministry of Environment for failing to meet the requirements of the Ontario Drinking Water Protection Regulation. The municipal system appears on the list even though, according to its own report, the shortcoming was corrected almost three months ago, just a day after receiving the order.

The system, owned by the municipality of Minden Hills, was among 81 in the province to be cited for insufficient bacteriological and chemical testing of drinking water. The list of offending water systems was released Friday afternoon.

The municipality was quick to respond to the MOE announcement. Over the signature of Reeve Ross Rigney, a press release was issued Friday afternoon stating, "The Township of Minden Hills and the Ontario Clean Water Agency (OCWA) both wish to confirm that the users of the Minden Water System do not have any concerns with the quality of the drinking water. Our water system is in compliance with the standards outlined in the Ontario regulations," the press release affirmed.

According to the MOE announcement, the Minden system has been cited for failure to comply with minimum sampling requirements. The provincial ministry list indicates that an order has been issued to correct this situation.

According to the municipality, "The Minden Water system has consistently been monitored and has maintained a total chlorine residual in the distribution system." The press release goes on to note, "The township had a new free chlorine residual monitor installed and operational on July 19, one day after the order was issued. Confirmation was sent to the Ministry on July 20."

The MOE's list of 218 waterworks which did not meet its standards was the result of inspections carried out between April 1 and August 31 of this year. While those systems not meeting the standards were listed, there was no indication if corrective measures had been taken. According to the Minden Hills press release, that in fact was the case.

The municipality's recounting of the procedure states, "The Minden Water System was inspected by the Ministry of Environment on June 25, 2001 and a Provincial Officer Order was issued by the Ministry of Environment on July 18, 2001. The order required that, "by July 27, 2001 the Township of Minden Hills shall submit an action plan to the District Manager, Ministry of Environment, Peterborough District Office, outlining how and when the Township will comply with sampling requirements...with respect to Free Chlorine Residuals."

One day after the order was received, on July 19, the free chlorine residual monitor was installed and operating and the ministry was notified on July 20.

Other water systems in this area cited by the MOE report include: Galway-Cavendish and Harvey for the Alpine Water Treatment plant, failure to meet training or certification requirements; City of Kawartha Lakes, failure to comply with minimum sampling requirements at water treatment plants located in Fenelon Falls, Birchpoint, High View Acres, Janetville and Pleasant Point and failure to meet water quality standards at the Victoria Glen water treatment plant.

Lagoon poses no health hazard, unless you swim in it

test holes at the Highland Road site. "The reason for the test holes is to determine a suitable location for a septic lagoon," he said. "The Highland Road site was one of several sites explored in the geographic township of Stanhope."

He stressed that all the preliminary research was done in full compliance with the Ministry of Environment regulations by a fully qualified consulting firm. "It is standard procedure to do preliminary research before embarking on the public process that automatically comes with a project like this," he said. "The environmental impact of a project like this is always a priority and that's why a consultant was hired and why we operate under the very strict guidelines of the MOE."

Thomas said published reports have suggested that the Thomas Contracting name was kept quiet in relation to this project when, in fact, his company has partnered with the municipality in an attempt to find a suitable location for a septic lagoon. "There is not, and never has been, any attempt to withhold any information about this project from anyone in the community," he said. "Anyone who simply picked up the phone and called our offices would have been given any information about the project. Sadly, only two people talked to us directly — one in person and one on the phone."

The fourth point of clarification Thomas made was that the consultants determined that the Highland Road site was the best of the sites that were being investigated in the municipality. "The concerns of ground water tables, prevailing winds and setbacks expressed by some citizens have been taken into consideration by the consultants. They are, after all, professional environmental consultants."

He added that concerns about wildlife are unfounded.

Regarding misinformation, Thomas said it has been suggested that a septic lagoon poses a health risk. "This is not true, unless you go swimming in it," he said.

The concern about excessive odor generation was also expressed. "Visit any existing lagoon and you will quickly realize this is not true," he said.

Thomas pointed out that the intention was for only his company to use the site, which shoots down the theory that traffic would be increased by use of such a facility. He noted that the liabilities of allowing other haulers to use the facility were too great to consider that possibility.

"Concerns about increased pollutant loading are also exaggerated," Thomas said. "The report from our consultant proves this. When it comes to pollutants, I suggest that some folks take a closer look at their own septic systems."

Thomas said there is a septic emergency in this county. "According to the MOE there is nowhere to dump this winter in this county," he said. "Just because some people don't come here in the winter doesn't mean the issue goes away. After the MOE stops letting trucks dump on fields, all septic will have to go to lagoons. If we don't deal with this issue now, we will be in a difficult position that won't just affect Highland Road or Hawk Lake residents. It will affect the entire county."

Commenting on the situation, Thomas said, "My family has lived and operated a business in this community since 1934. I am disappointed that anyone would think that Thomas Contracting has anything other than the best interests of the community in mind."

He pointed out that someone filled in some of the test holes that were drilled. "This was a childish and ignorant prank," he said. "Do you know the lake association has requested information on the project from the MOE through the Freedom of Information Act?" he said. "I understand they have even hired their own consultant."

"I'm disappointed in all this because it's not a secret project. People have acted on rumour instead of calling up and asking questions, or telling us they object. I'd have listened. I don't know what people are afraid of. It's just me, Keith Thomas, and I live here too."

He pointed out that he has invested a substantial amount of money in the project to date, money he will not be able to recoup. "But, that's okay because this is my community and as a businessman in this community I value the concerns and opinions of my neighbours and customers. I don't want people mad at me and I don't want to damage the business my grandfather worked so hard to create."

September was a pleasant month. The first half was quite sunny and warm. The second half was quite rainy and cooler. The month ended with an average rainfall of 97 mm or about 4 inches. The average temperature was also normal at 14.7 degrees C or 57.7 degrees F, one degree C warmer than last September. There were four mornings with very light frost, with little damage to flowers or gardens. Usually we lose most gardens by the end of the month. As the month ended, we had about 50 to 60% show of the autumn colours. It should be at its peak for the Thanksgiving weekend. Last Thanksgiving was cold with rain and snow.

Snowmobile clubs will attempt to start season despite increased insurance costs

A potential threat to the 2001-02 snowmobiling season appears to have passed.

Several weeks ago members of the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association (HCSA) were concerned that they would not be able to open the trails due to sky-rocketing insurance costs.

According to HCSA president Peter Overington, the snowmobile clubs were told at the annual Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs convention in September that liability insurance to protect the clubs had jumped to $3 million. The OFSC had previously been paying $170,000 to provide liability protection for all the clubs which are members of the provincial organization.

The cause for the increase is related to a number of major claims against the insurance company as a result of mishaps on OFSC member trails.

At the OFSC convention, the delegates from across the province authorized a surcharge of up to $30 on this year's trail permit to cover the additional insurance expense. There was concern that the amount would not be enough to provide the needed revenue and that increasing the permit costs from $120 to possibly $150 could discourage sales.

The matter was further complicated when one of the insurance companies bidding on the coverage lost an office in the destruction of the World Trade Centre September 11. Fortunately the company had an off-site back up of its records and, when its bid was received, the amount was $2 million. That is still well beyond what the OFSC and permit holders can be expected to pay, however the association is moving ahead with the season in hope that the provincial government will be able to soften the impact of the insurance costs.

For the moment, according to Peter Overington, the HCSA plans to start the season as usual when there is enough snow to groom the trails. Those purchasing OFSC trail permits valid on all OFSC member trails across the province, should expect to pay an insurance surcharge, although the amount has yet to be determined.

Monitoring the water

Editorial

There is no question that people are concerned about the quality of the water they consume. Since the events at Walkerton 16 months ago, the safety of drinking water has been a prominent issue. The province has taken action to tighten regulations, municipalities have taken steps to ensure their systems are operating with the stated regulations, and individuals, who rely on their own systems, have increased their vigilance.

This attention to detail is important. For too long we have accepted without question that everything was operating as it should and that "someone" was watching out for our collective interests. Complacency, budget cuts and a laissez faire attitude have created situations where lives were put at risk and communities disrupted. That has changed now with more regulations and stricter enforcement of the existing rules.

While there are few who would argue that the new emphasis on monitoring the drinking water sources in the province has gone too far, we would suggest that those steps must be taken carefully. The desire to protect the welfare of the citizens of Ontario has led the Ministry of Environment on an inspection blitz across the province. Its latest report, issued Friday, lists numerous water systems with shortcomings, including the one serving the Village of Minden. What the report fails to note is that the municipality was alerted of the shortcoming July 18 and the situation was corrected the next day, July 19. The fact that the order was based on an MOE inspection which took place almost a month earlier, is an indication that the situation was not considered a threat to the safety of the drinking water.

We are pleased that the Provincial Government and the Ministry of Environment is taking a renewed interest in the water systems of Ontario. We are pleased the ministry is issuing public reports on its findings. What we find disturbing is that the reports do not acknowledge the remedial steps which have been taken and whether these have in fact eliminated the problem that caused the report to be filed in the first place. By not including this information, the Ministry is only adding, in most cases we would suggest, needlessly, to the concern the public has over the safety of water systems named in the report.

By all means, the monitoring should continue, reports should be issued and the public warned if there is a threat. But those reports should also indicate how serious a threat the violation poses, if any, and that corrective actions to resolve the shortcomings have been instituted. Only by adding these aspects will the province, the Ministry and the water system operators engender a sense of confidence in the safety of our drinking water that has been called into question in the last 16 months.

Disruptions hurt the students

(The following letter was sent to the trustees of the Trillium Lakelands District School Board)

I am writing to voice my concern over the proposed merger of three grade eight classes into two classes at Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden.

The proposed class size for the new grade eight class is 35 students. The existing class size is 24 students and the guideline published by the Government of Ontario is 24.5 students per class in this classroom category. I realize the prescribed average class size is just that, an average on a board-wide basis. I believe it was the Ontario government's intention to provide some flexibility on class sizes through averaging, but I do not believe the spirit of the education standard was to have class sizes float to 35 students. That is a 35% increase over the provincial average.

I have spent some time discussing this matter with the school principal, Ms. Rosie Kenney, and fully understand the strange logic for making such drastic changes, but that does not make it right. Grade eight students are at a pivotal point in their education as they prepare to enter high school. I believe the classroom sizes that exceed the provincial standard are a disservice to the students and a risk to the quality of graduates our public school system generates.

The school board was funded to provide teachers for an average class size of 24.5 students. Manage the situation. If it means cutting back on administrative expenses or embracing parental assistance, then do so. If it is totally necessary to cut back on non-core subjects such as music programs to ensure teaching dollars for core subjects (like math and science) then this must be done. We have the responsibility to ensure our children graduate with the tools necessary to make their way in life.

Once again, I urge you to re-evaluate the situation and provide reasonable staffing for the classroom. Why are classes which are bang-on the provincial standard being manipulated part-way through the school year into a situation that can't possibly address the needs of the students?

Class sizes of 35 students are just not acceptable,

Mark Coles,
Minden.

Don't let that lady bug you

Been pinched by a lady recently? Many people in the area have reported such aggressive behavior during the past few weeks.

According to the Ministry of Natural Resources, favourable weather conditions and an abundance of food are behind the noticeable increase in the ladybug population around area homes and cottages.

"We have had a lot of calls from the public wondering why there are so many lady bugs," said Ministry of Natural Resources forest health technician Ed Czerwinski. "The reason their numbers grow is in response to an increase in their prey."

The preferable foods for ladybugs, the proper name is lady beetle, are aphids and scale insects. There have been outbreaks of aphids and scales on many plants, such as soybeans and fruit trees and in wooded areas this year.

Editor:

Mr. Prentice, in his Letter to the Editor on Getting the Facts on PWC's (August 24) has made his case as to why PWC's (Personal Watercraft) should not be banned from our lakes. However, he seems to disregard the fact that most PWCs on the water at the moment are not new models and as such, they do not have the latest technology to clean their exhaust fumes and minimize noise.

Is Mr Prentice suggesting that perhaps a ban on older PWCs be set in place but not on new models? If he is, then he has a huge conflict of interest!

The larger issue with PWCs on our lakes has been completely overlooked by Mr Prentice. He makes no mention of the problem with PWCs that drive most of us nuts: the fact that most riders seem to leave their brains at the dock when they go for a ride. Too often, when I see these idiots on the water I am immediately reminded of a dog chasing it's tail. What is it about these machines that makes riders want to ride them in endless circles and back and forth and back and forth, hours on end, in front of the same row of cottages (seemingly, never their own)?

Until the manufacturers of PWCs find a way to raise the collective IQ of people using their product, I wholly endorse a ban on their use.

Send in the clowns (and their lawyers)

Funny how some entertainers come with theme songs. Frank Sinatra had "My Way". Judy Garland's was "Somewhere Over The Rainbow". Bob Hope had "Thanks For the Memories" (Raquel Welsh should have gone for "Thanks For the Mammaries").

Rodney Dangerfield has a theme song too - well, not so much a song - more a theme whine. His trademark entrance: he shuffles out on the stage, stares at the audience with those golf ball eyes and grumps "I can't get no respect!"

Oh yeah, Rodney? You think you've got it bad? I'll tell you who can't get no respect.

Clowns.

Those raccoon-eyed, tumbleweed-haired, baggy-drawered bozos with the lightbulb noses and the water-ski shoes - THEY get no respect at all. Which is sad, because clowns have been making us laugh for millennia. In Ye Olde Tymes they were called jesters, mimes, fools or minstrels, but clowns they were.

Clowns were pratfalling around the streets of Sparta nine centuries ago. Ancient Romans wet their togas laughing at clowns. Falstaff, one of Shakespeare's most endearing creations, was pure clown from the toes of his moth-eaten slippers to the top of his fright-wigged head. There's scarcely been a time in recorded history when clowns haven't been around to make us laugh, but I fear sometime soon, some clown will be sweeping up his spotlight for the last time.

The long, unhumorous arm of the law has finally caught up with clowning. Let me take you through the doors of a convention hall in London, England to observe a recent annual meeting. It's weird, as annual meetings go. Some of the delegates are wearing pajamas. A couple are lounging around on stilts. Everyone seems to have a bicycle horn and most of them are wearing extremely silly hats. Well, what do you expect - this is the annual general meeting of Clowns International.

What's really weird is - no one is laughing. That's because instead of trading routines, they're discussing liability insurance. Ian James, the chairman of the performers trade union is telling them that they should not go on stage unless they carry at least 10 million dollars worth of public liability insurance.

These are primarily British clowns and they are looking nervously across the Atlantic to the plight of clowns in litigation-loony USA. American clowns are increasingly being sued for huge sums by audience members 'injured' during their acts.

For clowns it's no laughing matter. These are performers who regularly use custard pies, seltzer bottles, juggling pins, unicycles and stilts - all potentially hazardous accessories for some unscrupulous shyster looking for an easy insurance scam.

Zippo, the vice-president of Clowns International sums it up best: "It's a sad world if clowns can't be clowns".

I wish I could say the Canadian clown situation is rosier, but I can't. I refer you to the plight of Hans Zahn. He's a clown who specializes in magic acts and he's been criss-crossing the province of Newfoundland with his magic routine. Not, alas, successfully.

Mister Zahn belongs to no circus and Newfoundland is a sparsely populated, far-flung venue from which to try to wring a living as a solo-magician-clown. What's more there were specific disasters.

For instance, said Mister Zahn, the rabbits he used in his act began to die from the harsh Newfoundland winters and his pigeons refused to fly. He tried to explain all this to Revenue Canada tax weasels while claiming substantial business losses on his income tax returns. For the past 17 years. But the magic wasn't working for Hans.

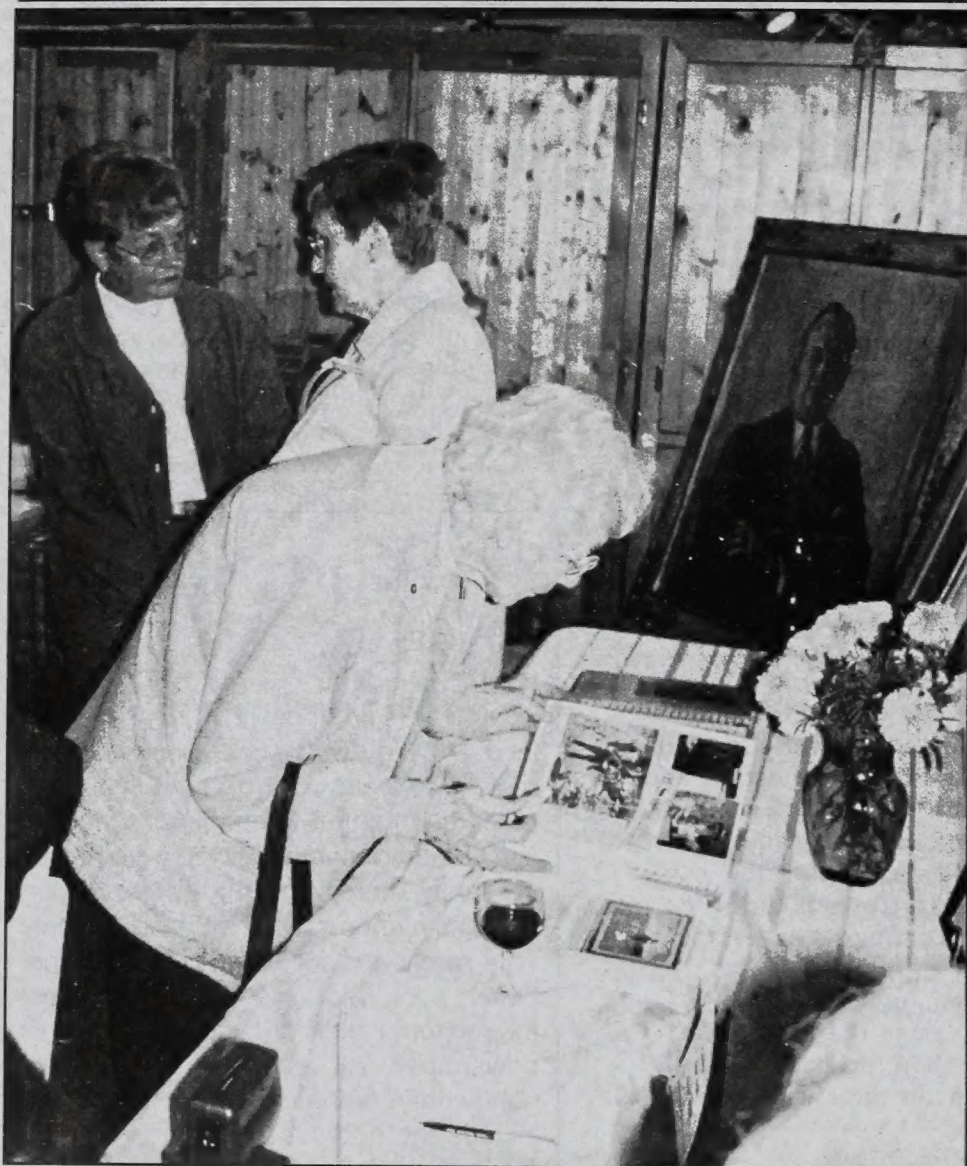

RevCan didn't buy it. "You try to bring world-class entertainment to the regions," lamented Hans, "and Revenue Canada penalizes you for it."

Cheer up, Hans. We'll leave you with a clown joke: these two cannibals are gathered around a big stewpot in which they've just cooked up a clown. One of them turns to the other and says: "Does this taste funny to you?"

Feel free to use it, Hans. I stole that joke from the mayor of Toronto. He's the biggest clown in the country

Anniversary celebration

The Agnes Jamieson Gallery marked its twentieth anniversary last week. The gallery hosted a reception and invited its many supporters to drop by. In addition to the current show, a corner featuring photographs, clippings and memorabilia from the gallery's history were on display. Bette Herlihey examines the scrap books, in the foreground, while Bea Berry and Linda Kellett share memories. The portrait of Frank Welch is seen in the corner. His donation of Andre Lapine paintings was the start of the gallery's permanent collection.

common and easily recognized of all insects. The adult lady beetle is usually small and less than 5 mm long. Most people will recognize by its round dome-shaped body. The surface is a shiny orange to yellow colour and often brilliantly marked with black spots, although sometimes the spots may be white, red or yellow. The species currently in profusion is Harmonia axyridis. It is yellowish-red with a varying number of spots and is relatively new to Ontario.

Other facts of interest about lady beetles:

- Lady beetles are some of the most beneficial of all insects because they prey on insects that damage crops and trees.

- There are more than 500 species of lady beetles in North America, most of which feed on aphids, scales or eggs and larvae of other insects.

- In the adult stage, winter is spent in protected areas such as cottages and basements.

- Although Harmonia axyridis collect in large numbers in winter they do not cause damage in the home.

- Ladybugs can inadvertently land on people and may bite. The bite rarely breaks the skin, but the insect can deliver a noticeable pinch.

Some homeowners reported a large number of lady beetles in the winter of 2000-2001. If this summer's beetle populations are any indication, we may see more beetles moving in this fall looking for a cozy place to spend the winter.

To keep the ladybugs from entering your buildings, install screens on windows and vents and keep door sweeps and insulation in good condition.

Season gets off to a

Highland Storm Peewee AE team downs Huntsville

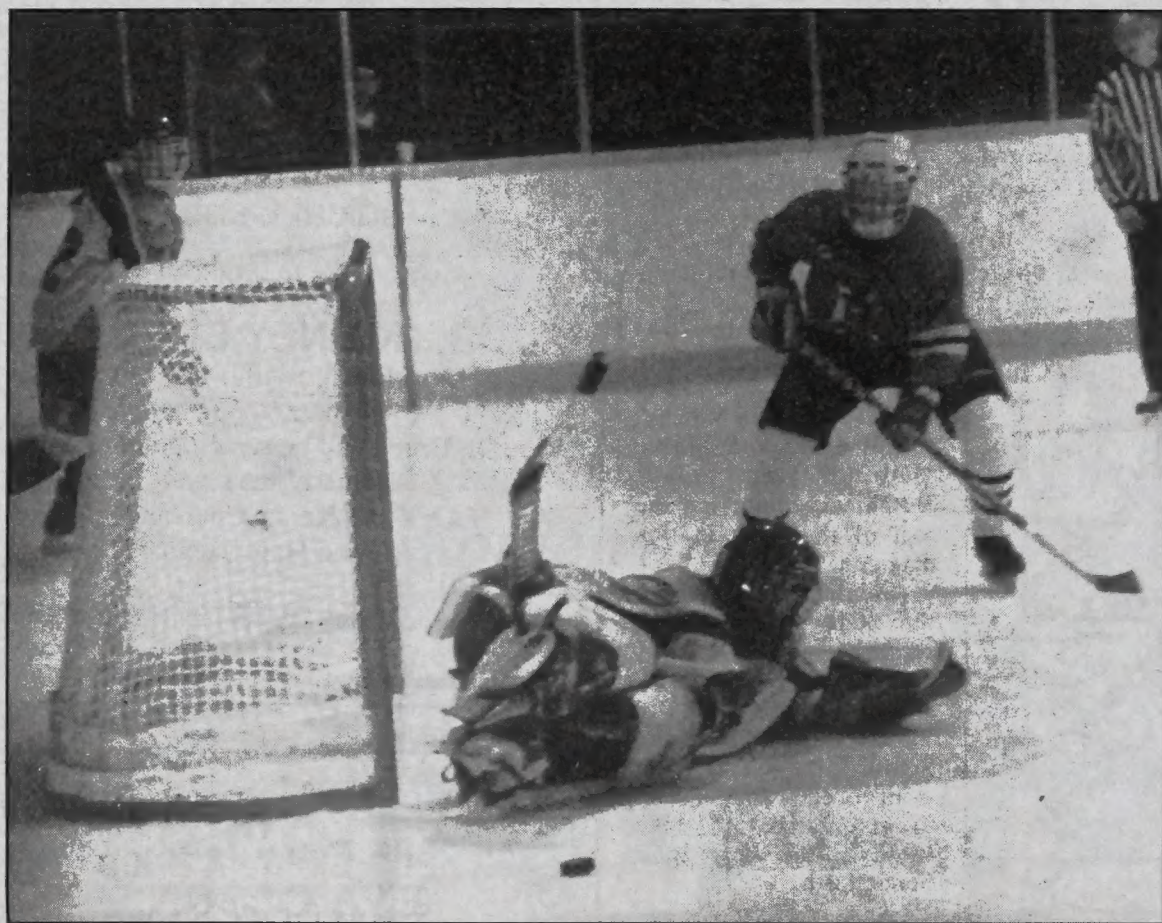

The 2001-02 Peewee AE minor hockey season got under way September 30 when the Highland Storm played host to Huntsville at the S.G. Nesbitt Memorial Arena in Minden. The newly amalgamated Highland Storm defeated the veteran-laden Huntsville squad by a 6-4 margin.

The game featured stand-out performances by Storm goalies Mike Lennox and Ian Sachs, who split the duties. Both stopped several odd-man rushes as the team learns to adapt to the new coaching philosophy of Jim Winn and Gary Burtch.

Scoring for the Storm was Max Ambridge, with the team's first hat trick and a sure sign of things to come. Cody Mills, Zach Pierson and Jordan Joanu contributed one goal each to the winning tally.

Huntsville was unable to weather the strong, hard-hitting, aggressive play of the Storm and trailed 6-2 late in the third period. The visitors managed two goals in the final minute of the game.

This was a great team win and confidence booster as the Pee-wees start the new season. This promises to be a team to watch.

SPRAWLING SAVE:

The Highland Storm Bantam A hockey team played host to Manvers Friday night. The Storm won the home opener by a 5-4 score. Storm goalie Jeremy Moynes makes a save during the first period.

He held the opposition scoreless through the first two periods, but Manvers rallied to tie the game in the third before the Storm got the winner late in the game.

Junior Red Hawks earn second victory

by Bruce Griffith

A big, powerful team from Thomas A. Stewart Secondary School came to the Highlands Thursday, October 4 for the Red Hawks second game of the season. Once again the Red Hawk defense came up big, with crushing tackles, four interceptions, three fumble recoveries and two blocked punts.

The first quarter was fifteen minutes of red flags as every play had an off-side or a holding call for either squad. This made for a long and uneventful quarter.

The second quarter saw fewer mistakes, but neither offensive group was able to get the ball into the end zone to score. Punt returner Kevin Walker had a dazzling 50 yard return into the end zone which was then called back on a off-side penalty.

The second half was a repeat of game one. Our defense wore down the opposing team and with huge punts and kick-off's by Shane Both we were able to keep the ball in the TASS end. Tight ends Ross Gerry and Joel Johnson both caught passes and ran them for touchdowns, with one point conversions by Shawn Hemming.

The fourth quarter saw Joel Johnson dominate the field on defense, with two interceptions, a defensive touchdown and hits that were heard in Donald.

With many game stars and a final score of 21 to 0 for the Red Hawks, grade 9 super stars to be noted were: Kevin Crofts, Adam Trueman, Dave Balaski, Deni Knzevic, Dan Risk, Matt Roberts, Jamie Timbers, Rob Stevenson and Dave McGlade.

Next game is Friday, October 12 at 1 p.m. in Fenelon Falls.

LEARNING EXPERIENCE: Friday's home game against the Emily-Omemee Sharks was a learning experience for the Highland Storm AE hockey team. The visiting team, which plays in the A loop, went home from the S.G Nesbitt Memorial Arena in Minden with a shutout victory.

Highland Storm Novice A team blanks Newcastle 4-0

Welcome to the new hockey season. An Introduction of the Highland Storm Novice A hockey team for the inaugural season is in order. The goalie is Zach Harrison. The defense includes Michael Callaghan, Mathew Gallagher, Drew Paul and Mark Vasey. The forwards are Keaton Gadway, Scott Griffith, Ashton Haley, Brett Hicks, Christopher Judge and Brandon Yake.

They are coached by Bruce Griffith and Tom Haley, with Brian Gallagher as trainer, and John Judge as Manager.

Undefeated in two games

The Storm Novices are undefeated

after the first two games with a 4-0 win over Newcastle at home, and a hard played, scoreless tie in Omemee.

It is refreshing to already see improvement this early in the season, with everyone playing sound positional hockey and showing lots of hustle and drive in an exciting fast paced game.

All indications are that this team should have an excellent year and the boys are sure to provide some entertaining action for the fans.

Be sure to catch the action by taking in their games. Come and cheer the team on. The players and team officials will appreciate your support.

be the lesser of the two evils. But, the consensus is that both proposed solutions are unacceptable, especially when hiring one half-time kindergarten teacher would solve the problem.

Doiron pointed out that ASES is already over-staffed, according to the government formula. He said ASES is not the only school with the problem. A total of 25 elementary schools, more than half of the schools in the district, have split Grade 7 and 8 classes.

"The Grade 7 and 8 class average at ASES is 23 for each teacher," Doiron said. "That doesn't exist anywhere else in the system. That's richer than any other school, staff-wise."

Doiron said the decision was made to leave the ASES staffing as it is, but restructuring is necessary because of the funding available. He also noted that the number of support staff, such as educational assistants, is higher at ASES than at other schools.

Robinson said he knows classes of more than 30 students are not ideal, "but it does happen," he said.

"Numbers are not relevant in this case," said one parent. "The kids are settled. They are the piggy in the middle. It's just not fair." Those comments garnered a loud round of applause.

The students did some calculations of their own. They showed a model of a classroom with the higher number of students, each occupying one square metre per student, including his or her desk. The model didn't leave much room for the teacher, his or her desk and fixtures. The board members were impressed, but unmoved.

The comments by frustrated parents suggested that the board members really didn't care about the kids, but only about the numbers.

"The kids are our future," one parent said. "They are not just numbers."

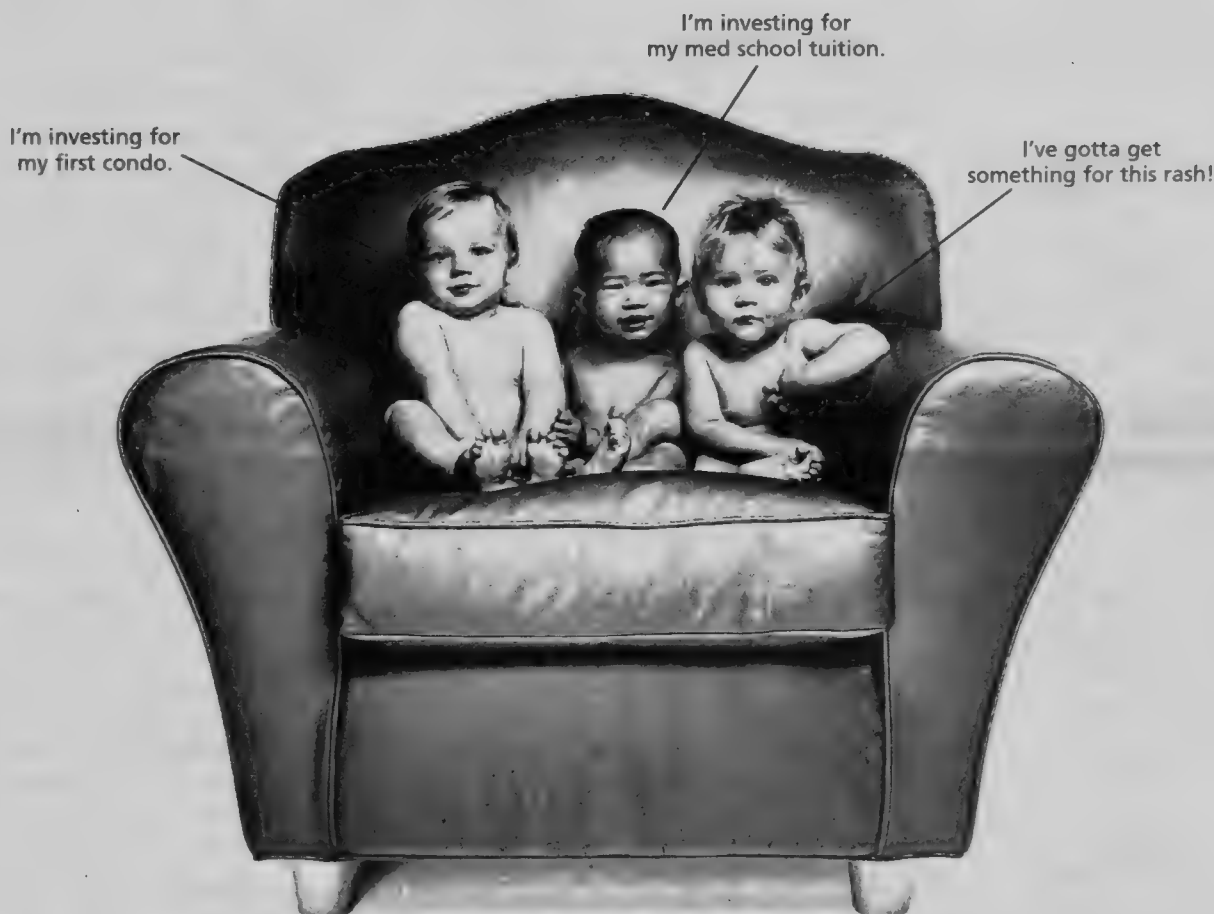

"You people are being very unkind," Doiron retorted. "I care about making the system the best that I can. I do the best I can with the money I have. It's not a pleasant situation and I'm just as unhappy as you are."

Robinson added that he has two sons who went through the system here. "I think they were served very well," he said. "I care about each and every student, and Paul does too."

One parent suggested that if less money was spent on TV ads telling everyone how much good the government is doing for the youth of the province they would have more for where it counts — in the classrooms.

Doiron pointed out that if ASES was given an additional half-time teacher the other schools would have reason to expect the same treatment. There simply is no money available.

One of the students noted that the government will be giving Ontario taxpayers a $12 to $16 rebate to stimulate the economy. She suggested that if that rebate money were targeted toward a half-time teacher's salary the problem would be solved.

ASES Principal Rosie Kenny told the audience that the problem started long before the Harris government took over. She admitted mistakes were made at the school.

Several possible alternatives were suggested, including polling kindergarten parents to see if they would be in favour of allowing slightly larger kindergarten classes so the Grade 8's wouldn't have to be amalgamated.

That suggestion was ruled out by both the board members and the teachers. They said the early years are critical to a child's development and they should be limited to no more than 20 children per teacher.

After two hours of discussion, sometimes confrontational, the group requested that the board members ask Director of Education David Hill to postpone a decision until a delegation had the chance to present its case at the next Trillium Lakelands board meeting, which will be held tonight (October 9) in Bracebridge. They agreed to contact Hill and make that request on behalf of the ASES representatives, cautioning that it was Hill's decision and not theirs' whether that request would be accepted or rejected.

The Director agreed to postpone making a decision until after the presentation at tonight's meeting.

Finding form in the forest

--submitted--

Leo Sepa, Kevin Lockau ... Mary Ellen Farrow ... three names that were inscribed for posterity this fall as creators of the first sculptures installed in the Haliburton Sculpture Forest in Glebe Park.

The Haliburton County Development Corporation Arts Committee recently dedicated these sculptures, the first stage, in the creation of a unique outdoor public art space that will eventually expand to become a true "forest" of sculptures that combines art, environment and recreation themes reflected in each of the chosen compositions.

Happily, but not surprisingly, two of the three highly respected artists are from this region. Leo Sepa, a resident of Moore Falls, is well-known locally for his contribution to the Eagle Lake outdoor sculpture, "A Family of Eagles", on which he collaborated with fellow artist Sergio Zrinscak. This spring, his stylized Canada Goose weathervane will roost atop the new Trails & Tours Information Kiosks.

More of Sepa's work can be viewed at his Iron Jive studio and gallery where he forges metal in both new and recycled pieces.

Recycled or 'found' objects are at the heart of his winning sculpture, aptly titled "Moose Scraps", a collage of retired vintage farm and other hardware, formed into the shape of one of Canada's largest mammals, the moose. Like many of Sepa's sculptures, the piece exudes wit and charm, the time-ripened components enhancing its rusticity. "With more and more development and expansion into our rural areas, the need to coexist with nature by conserving and recycling becomes more crucial," says Leo.

Another well-known regional artist, Kevin Lockau hails from Bancroft and has both taught and been a student at The Haliburton School of The Arts. Lockau has chosen granite boulders as the medium for his installation. "Dreaming Stones" will be a 2.75 metre mystical totem, made from six boulders, with a total weight of about 544 kilograms.

The stones have been worked using their natural shape and will retain a patina of lichen to achieve a feel of age and performance. Patterns and imagery have been cut in relief using diamond abrasives.

Visitors to the park will be able to feel textural patterns and handle the same stone as settlers 100 - 140 years ago in the opening of this county. "My granite sculptures are made for the outdoors, to look like part of the surrounding environment in all seasons. In winter, snow and ice play on the patterns and transform the textures, creating new forms and emphasis", says Lockau.

The base of the totem is a sleeping wolf or coyote, the "trickster", symbolically grounding the piece. Balanced on his back is a pattern of concentric circles representing time, growth rings and the square timber era. The next boulder up represents leaves as a symbol of regeneration, life and economy, topped by one with contour lines representing contour plowing of farming and hilly terrain. Above this is etched the faces of pioneers, their stories locked in the land. Perched above all is the Owl, symbol of wisdom, flight and change and repeating the theme of balance expressed in the totem base.

Also working in stone, but on a smaller, more intimate scale, Mary Ellen Farrow, a Brampton resident and member of the Mississauga Sculpture Studio, is a familiar face here in Haliburton, as a student at the Haliburton School of The Arts. For the Glebe Park installation, Farrow has created a limestone hiker with a bronze cast of a real maple leaf in the hand. The piece, called "A Walk in the Woods", stands 1.5 metres high and is mounted on rock for increased stature.

According to the artist, snow can only enhance its beauty. "It will appear to have a top hat and an arm full of snow. In other seasons, the limestone will blend with its surrounds so as not to jar the senses, but to be a pleasant surprise as you approach it", says Farrow.

The agreeable, Junoesque lines of the hiker give the sculpture a winsome, approachable quality; the tranquil face invites projection from the viewer.

Farrow's human scale and serenity creates an engaging contrast to Lockau's larger than life mysticism and Sepa's ingeniously imposing moose. This discerning combination of contrast and appeal didn't come effortlessly.

Five jurors who represent a cross-section of the arts community were almost overwhelmed by the 33 submissions that arrived from across our region, Ontario and one all the way from Vancouver. To ensure impartiality, all identifying information was removed from each submission, which was then assigned a number by the consulting team. The jurors used a point-form rating system so that the same criteria were applied to each piece.

Each artist was asked to submit sophisticated drawings along with photographs or a maquette, which is a miniature of the proposed sculpture, and slides of recent work with supporting documentation. Since each of the pieces relates to the surrounding environment and to local history or culture, artists were invited to view the site for themselves last November, when they were guided through Glebe Park, which is used by thousands of walkers and skiers each year. The park will also be home to the new campus of Sir Sandford Fleming College and the Haliburton School of The Arts.

This first phase of the Haliburton Forest Sculpture project was funded by the Ontario Trillium Foundation and was co-ordinated by a team of local consultants that includes Jim Blake, Roy Truchan and Tilda Truchan. The project is one part of a successful, ongoing drive to raise awareness of the visual arts in the Haliburton Highlands.

The Haliburton County Development Corporation's Arts Committee counts among its many initiatives the installation of ten sculptures in communities and focal points throughout the area, the creation and distribution of the "Where it's Art" Brochure and Guidemap, and the development of a website promoting the visual arts. DELTA PINESTONE RESORT

HALIBURTON 457-1800

Here next weekendAnglican Primate to visit Minden

The Primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, The Very Reverend Michael Peers, will be making his first visit ever to Minden on the weekend of Saturday, October 13 and Sunday, October 14. He is visiting St. Paul's Church in Minden as part of the 135th Anniversary celebrations that have been going on all year.

The Primate's visit marks the official end of the celebrations and special activities that began back in March with the visit of The Very Reverend Terence Finlay, Bishop of the Anglican Diocese of Toronto. In between, many of the former rectors have been guest preachers. One of the two other responsibilities of the Archbishop will be the official burning of the loan document that represents the $140,000 that the people of St. Paul's needed to undertake a major renovation of the nave and the exterior of the nearly 130 year old wooden structure that is the worship space. He will also rededicate the sacramental portions of the church and bring greetings from the Anglican headquarters to the people.

Another highlight of the visit is a dinner which is being held at Our Lady of Fatima Roman Catholic Church hall on Saturday evening. Archbishop Peers and his wife, Dorothy, will be attending the gala to which various other local clergy and politicians have been invited. Prime Minister Jean Chretien, Premier Michael Harris, MPP Chris Hodgson and Minden Hills Reeve Ross Rigney will all be sending certificates of congratulations and best wishes to the people of St. Paul's. The Reverend Merv Everall, Priest-in-Charge of the Parish of Minden-Kinmount, which includes St. Paul's, will be Master of Ceremonies at the dinner.

St. Paul's began as a congregation in Minden when the Reverend Fred Burt moved from Haliburton in the fall of 1866 to take up residence in Minden. The congregation met at the Methodist Church, people's homes and in schools. The exact date of the construction of the church is not known, but it is the oldest worshipping community in Haliburton, still in the same building from the 1860's.

The October weekend is also important in the life of the church because St. Paul's was consecrated on October 12, 1900.

Septage should be a county responsibility

His next statement was one that the majority of the people in attendance were happy to hear.

"To that end, Thomas Contracting, as a private contractor, will not be pursuing a septic lagoon in this community," he said. "Although this project has proven too costly and too time-consuming for me as a private contractor, I am willing to consider a partnership with Algonquin Highlands."

Concluding his address to the public and council, Thomas said, "Please remember that a solution to our septic emergency must be found. I strongly suggest that everyone get used to the idea of lagoons because, according to the MOE, they are the future."

Algonquin Highlands Deputy-Reeve Don Shortreed pointed out that a lot of people were against the construction of a lagoon in McClintock Township, but they changed their tune when there was talk of closing it down after a few years of operation.

"We're trying to provide a service," he said.

It was also noted that without a septage lagoon available in the area, the cost of pumping out a holding tank could skyrocket to $400 or $500.

Shortreed suggested people do some research about what a sewage lagoon really is. He added that people who are so adamantly opposed now may be the same people who will support such a facility in the future.

Thomas Grace, the consultant hired by Thomas Contracting, pointed out that the site was suitable for a lagoon, but was not suitable for spreading of the septage.

Grace explained how septage lagoons work and how they are constructed. He also explained the procedure for determining the suitability of a site for a septage lagoon. He noted that the rules governing septage lagoons changed — became more stringent — in May of 2000.

Grace said a lagoon is lined and there is zero discharge. The effluent is 98 per cent water, some of which evaporates and is also diluted by rain and snow. He tried to get the point across that the smell is not as bad as most people at the meeting believed. He also pointed out that it would not have been a huge lagoon. The proposed size was 85 by 60 feet. The area required to spread the material from a lagoon is also smaller than most people imagined. Grace said the minimum surface area required for spreading of the liquid from a lagoon would be about a half acre. "Four or five acres would be preferred," he said.

The frequency of use for the proposed site would have been about one truck load every two days.

"There would be odor right at the site," Grace admitted, but he suggested it would dissipate as the distance from the site increased.

Other sites?

Even though the Highland Road site has been ruled out by the contractor, some members of the audience asked members of council if they were still considering the site for development as a septage lagoon.

"We will continue to try to find a site in Stanhope," said Reeve Eleanor Harris. She pointed out that finding a suitable location will now be at the expense of the taxpayers, not the contractor.

"We don't have a piece of property in Stanhope without acquiring additional land and having it rezoned," Harrison added. She explained that a public meeting before testing was done would have been pointless since neither the municipality nor the contractor would have the information to address public concerns.

"The full intent was to go public," Harrison said.

One member of the audience suggested the Pine Springs landfill site as a good alternative for a lagoon, since it is more isolated than the Highland Road site. Pine Springs is in Hindon Township, which is part of Minden Hills. Harrison said she would contact Minden Hills officials to see if there is an interest in jointly developing a lagoon at Pine Springs.

Pat Lowery is the Chair of the Algonquin Highlands Waste Management Committee. She was critical of the lack of information between the municipality and her committee. Lowery said her committee was not informed of the search for a septage lagoon site.

She suggested other technology is available and that it might be worth a few extra dollars now to solve the problems for the future.

Another member of the audience suggested that he would be willing to pay more taxes for an acceptable solution to the septage disposal problem. His comments met with the approval of the majority of the people in the room.

Another audience member said he thought the problem is the responsibility of the county and suggested a sewage treatment plant to serve the whole county. It was pointed out that such a plant would cost millions of dollars.

Thomas cautioned that the need for lagoons is not going to go away. He said that there is no guarantee that the MOE will not prohibit spreading septage on fields in the near future. He pointed out that his certificate of approval is good for five years. But he said the MOE has the authority to change regulations and revoke anyone's C of A. He said he is sure the spreading of septage will be banned some time in the not too distant future. When that happens, lagoons will be the only practical solution.

One man in the audience took a different approach from the majority. "The more I look into it, the more I am in favour of a lagoon," he said.

Harrison said of the need for a septage lagoon in the area. "We won't be giving up on this."

Tax shift caused by re-evaluation

report prepared by Kawartha Lakes Mayor Art Truax

Months, weeks and hours have been spent by staff and members of Council to finally establish tax rates for the City of Kawartha Lakes. To do so, there have been numerous staff reports, media reports and much rhetoric by members of Council during this process. As a result, it is believed that there is much confusion regarding the end result - "That being the cheque must be written to pay the tax bill". Therefore, the following is but another attempt to explain how your tax bill has been developed:

The City of Kawartha Lakes has passed the 2001 tax rate by-law that will result in the establishment of over 1,700 tax rates. Due to the reassessment of properties, the averaging of 17 residential tax rates into one and the decrease in overall spending, it is necessary for residents to examine their tax notices to determine where the changes have occurred. For 2001, it is not just the bottom line.

There has been a tax savings for the whole of the City of Kawartha Lakes in 2001. The total tax levied on the entire geographic area has decreased by $1,197,581, meeting one of the major targets set by Council. There will be shifts in taxation for this initial year of the city due to the rationalization of services and tax policies which differed from former municipality to former municipality. Council reviewed service delivery and have mitigated some of the tax shifts by introducing area rating for fire, street lights, sidewalks, aggregate resources rebate, transit, police service, waste collection, parks and business improvement area.

There has been major taxation shifts cause by changes to the current value assessment (CVA) for the entire city. In 2001, the assessment was based on the value of an individual property on June 30, 1999 as compared to the previous cut-off date of June 30, 1996. The assessment figures are provided to the city from the Municipal Property Assessment Corporation (MPAC). The assessment figures supplied by MPAC must be used by the city for the calculation of tax bills. Generally, if your assessment goes up, your taxes go up. This may not be the case in 2001.

Assessment shifts inevitably create tax shifts. In the case of the City of Kawartha Lakes, there is impact from two types of assessment shifts - inter-municipal and class shifts. With the reassessment carried out by the Province during this time frame, it has assisted in making comparisons between 2000 and 2001 even more difficult. During the reassessment, there was a shift of assessment from commercial/industrial classes to residential/farm properties. On average, residential property assessments were up 6.8%, waterfront properties up 10% and farmland up 20.2%. Inter-municipal assessment shifts will impact on the

Focus on Education

Helping your child understand tragic events

-prepared by the Trillium Lakelands District Board of Education-

If they're being honest, most adults would acknowledge at least a few moments of fear, helplessness, anger and sadness as a result of the terror attacks in the United States on September 11. It stands to reason, then, that in our media-saturated world, even preschool-aged children have had some exposure to the attacks and their aftermath, and that children of all ages may be having difficulty coping with their feelings.

The Trillium Lakelands District School Board quickly issued some tips to staff for helping students through the traumatic days after the incidents. Parents may still be noticing lingering signs of fear or confusion in their children. Here are some suggestions to help:

- above all, listen to your children, rather than trying to tell them what you think they feel
- don't deny their feelings – something as seemingly comforting as saying, "Don't cry, everything will be fine," may actually serve to emphasize their feelings of helplessness
- remind your children that the attacks happened far away, and that the people responsible for them do not live in our community. Children of different ages may have widely varying reactions, including increased aggression, sleeping problems, inappropriate jokes, or simply no reaction at all.

Being sensitive to your child's moods and preoccupations and maintaining routines that provide a sense of safety and normalcy can be the most powerful tools of all in helping him or her cope.

Total taxes decrease in Kawartha Lakes year-over-year rate increases or decreases for each of the former municipalities. Value has not risen evenly. For example, the CVA in Sturgeon Point rose by 38.5%, Carden/Dalton rose by 12.7% while Lindsay rose by 0.9%. This assists to change the burden of taxes between former taxation areas. It should be noted that assessment is the responsibility of the Province.

The overall average residential tax rate has decreased from 2000 to 2001, however, for some of the tax payers within the former municipalities, this will mean a lower tax residential tax rate from 2000 while others will see a higher residential tax rate. Moreover, there are many other factors which affect the calculation of the tax bill that contribute to changes from the tax amount levied in 2000.

It is estimated that there will be over 19,000 properties which will experience an average $194.00 decrease in taxes while approximately 17,000 properties will experience an average increase of $164.00. There will be no phase in of these increases or decreases.

It is anticipated that tax notices will be in the mail on or before October 9, with due dates set for October 30 and November 29. If you have questions with your tax notice, please contact the tax department or local service centre.

Colour tour in the offing

We're sitting here this morning enjoying our coffee and discussing the events of the last few days. There was our Birthday Tea just the other day, hosted by the Kinmount Catholic Church. They brought a lovely array of food for us to tuck into, a large home-made birthday cake. We enjoyed their company and appreciated the time they spent with us.

The Grandfathers and Leisa joined us for Happy Hour. This group is always enjoyed and is always welcome in our home. We've had many a good session with them. Our thanks.

The weekend was fairly quiet with just a few visitors spotted. Reverend Burgess was here with us for his weekly visitations. So many of us look forward to chatting with him, a wonderful friend. At our Tuesday Chapel Service we said goodbye to Reverend Wicks who is moving out of the area. It was a lovely service. We were a little sad at the thought of him going, but we wished him and his family well, and thanked him for the many wonderful times he has spent with us.

There was only one table of cards this week. We're not sure what happened to the others, but those who played reported the following results. Mary Goldsmith with partner Roy Nicholls won two games to one against Margaret Bessie and Marjorie Watt. Let's hope there are more players out next week. Our countryside drive that was planned recently had to be re-scheduled. We are told it will take place this weekend. Let's hope so, as the colours look beautiful outside and it will be nice to take a drive and really see them. With the wind blowing so hard today they probably won't last long.

Ninia Prentice was the lucky recipient of the Leisure Bath this week and we hear she thoroughly enjoyed it and thought it absolutely fantastic. This is some bath to enjoy - some of us are looking forward to our turn. An extra bath over and above our regular baths - no time limit - lots of bubbles, music playing, mood lamp, aroma therapy, - talk about being pampered from head to toe. Who wouldn't enjoy that?

One can also benefit from a relaxing massage - Mary Robinson, Bea Britain, Hilda Gillespie, Lillian Stevenson and Eleanor Pye can surely attest to that as they all enjoyed one recently. It certainly helps with our aches and pains.

It was movie night last night complete with popcorn. For those of us on the first floor we enjoyed "Beethoven 2". The other movie playing on the second floor was "Dunston". Both were very good movies, quite funny so everyone enjoyed them very much.

We were so pleased to see Nora's column back in the paper again. We know she needs some time to recover her health, but we're glad she's home. Look after yourself Nora and we'll look forward to when you're well enough to put the column in full swing again.

Two more birthdays to announce: Laura Upton, whose birthday is October 11, and Thelma Deacon, who will celebrate on October 15th. Happy birthday to both of these ladies, enjoy your special day!

Just finished reading our October newsletter from cover to cover. Once again Rob did a great job. We thoroughly enjoy all the tidbits of information you pass on.

By the time you read this, Thanksgiving will be over and we hope you all will have had a lovely Thanksgiving. Some of us are visiting with family during this special time; others here are looking forward to tucking into our Thanksgiving dinner. We'll have to tell you all about it next week.

Well it seems we have run out of news, however we must share this little item with you. It was in our recent newsletter and we got a chuckle out of it. So bye for now and take care.

Just Fun "N" You

An elderly lady asked the bartender for a scotch with two drops of water. When the bartender sets her drink down she proudly announces that it's her 80th birthday. Eagerly people offer to buy the lady drinks. She consistently orders scotch and two drops of water.

Finally the bartender asks, "Why two drops of water?"

She replies, "At my age I've learned to handle my scotch, but water, that's another thing."

AT REST

HARDCASTLE, John "Jack"

Suddenly, in his 69th year on Monday, October 1st, 2001. Jack will be missed by his beloved stepsons Michael Babiak and Jamie Watterson as well as his many friends worldwide. The family received friends at the HUMPHREY FUNERAL HOME - A.W. MILES CHAPEL, 1403 Bayview Avenue, on Thursday, October 4th. Service took place on Friday, October 5th. Cremation followed. Memorial Donations to the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Foundation would be greatly appreciated by the family.

IN MEMORIAM

CREGO, Joseph

In loving memory of a dear Father and Papa who passed away on October 11th, 1995. In our hearts he is fondly remembered Not just today but every day He is forever in our hearts And we love and miss him every day. Forever loved by Ward, Liz, Mallory, Tyler and Kelsey.

CREGO, Joe

In loving memory of a dear husband, father and Papa who passed away October 11, 1995. Tenderly we treasure the past With memories that will always last Forever in our hearts. Dot and family.

JOHNSTON, Myles Ellwood

Who was taken from us October 11th, 1968. It's not the tears of the moment shed That tell of hearts that are torn, But the tears that are shed in after years And the grief that is silently borne. To our resting place I visit And place flowers there with care. But no one knows the heartache, son When I turn and leave you there. Deeply loved and sadly missed by Mom, brother and sisters.

IN MEMORIAM

McKELVEY, Elevean

In loving memory of our Mother who passed away October 12th, 2000. Flowers wave a silent greeting In a place where gentle breezes blow, Where lies one of ours so dearly Who we lost one year ago. If we had a lifetime wish A wish that would come true, We'd wish with all our hearts For Yesterday and You. A thousand words can't bring you back We know, because we tried, And neither will a million tears We know, because we cried. It broke our hearts to lose you But you did not go alone, For a part of us went with you The night God called you home. Forever remembered, Cherie, Sid, Elishya, Owen, Collin, Connor and Jerry.

IN MEMORIAM

McKELVEY, Doug

In loving memory of our Dad who passed away October 3rd, 1987. In the book of life there are memories Of the happy days we knew, And recorded in love are the blessings Of a wonderful Dad like you. Gone but not forgotten. Cherie, Sid, Elishya, Owen, Collin, Connor and Jerry.
